

FDA listserv guidelines:

1. The purpose of the FDA listserv is to provide a forum for general information circulation on matters pertaining to the FAN District. Please post only FAN related information, alerts and meeting announcements. Alerts may include notices of lost or found pets. The following are not appropriate for posting to the listserv:

- Commercial solicitations, advertisements (SPAMS) or invitations to commercially-hosted events, including product or service user groups.
- Personal communications between individuals
- Replies to individuals' requests for information which is obviously not of significant interest to the membership at large
- Personal criticism of individuals or even substantive contributions which violate professional protocol
- Personal or confidential information about others
- Messages devoted solely to humor or light conversation
- Any type of advertising to purchase, sell, or give away any item.
- Endorsements, preferences or discussions of candidates for office. We will circulate announcements of public meetings in which candidates for office may speak.

2. Reply to the sender, NOT the list. If you use REPLY or REPLY ALL your response will be to the listserv and everyone on the listserv will receive it.

3. The listserv is moderated by a volunteer who follows the guidelines set forth above. Personal attacks on the moderator for a rejected posting are not appropriate, and will be reported to the Board of Directors of the FDA.

4. Postings to the listserv cannot be guaranteed to be sent out instantaneously. When placing a posting, please note that it may take up to one day or more for the posting to hit the email accounts of everyone on the listserv, and plan accordingly.
